After using 3 different recruitment companies over a number of years, we had all but given up on finding one that could be effective. Sales Talent Agency (and specifically Truzanne) exceeded our expectations. Every person had been carefully vetted and none of the interviews were a waste of time. I found that consistency to be lacking with other agencies.

After we did not hire anyone from the first few rounds of interviews, I expected both the quantity and quality of candidates to diminish. For me, their ability to continue to send us qualified applicants without letting the process drag on is what really set them apart.

They were great to work with and I would not hesitate recommending Sales Talent Agency to anyone with recruiting needs. We will be using them again for our next hire.
