

February 10, 2011

To whom it may concern,

I would be happy to recommend Sales Talent Agency (STA) as a vendor of choice for all sales hiring needs. Our organization has worked with STA for the better part of two years and have received very good hiring support during that time. The quality of the candidates presented are always very high and the consultants at STA take great care to really try and understand their client's needs. Furthermore, their responsiveness and level of customer service is a something most other agencies should aspire to.

I have had, and continue to have, a very positive relationship with STA and I am excited about the prospect of a successful and mutually beneficial long-term partnership. I fully and unequivocally recommend this organization for anyone who is looking to find top quality sales talent.

Regards,

Terence Anton
Human Resources Manager